There are many platforms, many clients, many investors and two main common problems accuracy of information and fraudulent negation of responsibilities. To compound matters you also have the age-old problem of access to funds in case of dire need after making an investment in a private company.

TWAL

One of the main problems of banks in this day and age is ID Theft and people impersonation for malicious activities. We have developed a device that is no bigger than a credit card albeit thicker that will enable user to scan his thumbprint and take a picture of his face in order to match his ID. Once these two operations accomplished, an app on his phone or on his computer will ask to enter his personal self-chosen password - once that is done then and only then will he have access to his banking portal. In essence without his proven ID, no loans, credit card requests, etc. can be processed online - no more ID Theft and horrendous stories about people having to pay for loans that they never contracted.

Similarly our device with an add-on helps to block credit card theft too. Your card in blocked at the back of our device and can be released only if your id is verified by our system. Incidentally we are exposing this solution to top Swiss and French Banks in December. The top Portuguese Bank is also interested to be the first in Portugal to offer this device sold around 45 Euros to their clients along with a 5 € annual service fee.

There are many other applications that are going to follow mid to end of next year.
